1 to 2 and 3: This exercise had several purposes: (1) to stimulate thought and interest among the CSR students on common but important problems of the CS operator; (2) to add to OTR input the experiences and conclusions of newly returned CS operators. I especially thought that this material would be practical and even refreshing to the staff at [REDACTED]. It can be, but we must refine it. Actually there are passages in Topic E that are vivid and blunt, becoming almost refreshing.

I don't believe that we succeeded in our objective - we did begin. As Arch has pointed out, we need to supervise this effort more closely. We need also to refine our questions even further. This is being done by TAS.

I find Topic A the worst of these efforts.
